DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1, 4, 5, and 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Moberg et al (US 6,362,591).

Moberg discloses a syringe pump having a drive mechanism 120, an occlusion detector including a force sensor 7' (see US 4,678,408 incorporated by reference in col. 4, lines 27-30), and the method steps as claimed. Moberg's syringe pump is operable in response to a detected occlusion to reverse the drive applied to move the plunger along the barrel sufficiently until the force detected by the force sensor falls by a predetermined amount.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed October 21, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's arguments that Moberg's pump also reverses the drive when the occlusion is detected but its not in response to the detection of an elevated force, the examiner disagrees. The examiner directs applicant attention to col. 5, lines

33- 65, and col. 6, lines 7-17. The occlusion detector (force sensor) does not work by itself, and works in conjunction with the control unit or encoder and the motor like applicants. Moberg also discloses that the occlusion detector measures variation in reservoir pressure by monitoring several parameters (col. 5). Therefore, Moberg anticipates the claims.

Furthermore, the incorporation of the '408 patent into Moberg is to show the construction of the infusion pump (which includes the occlusion detector) and its operation. In response to arguments that Moberg, in col. 1, line 58 – col. 2, line 28, avoids force sensing, the examiner disagrees. That's a description of prior infusion pumps using switch systems, and not a description of its own invention.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
